AUTUMN AND WINTER

THE ISTITUTO INTERNAZIONALE CHOCOLIER

The Istituto Internazionale Chocolier is a scientific organisation for the sensory training of chocolate professionals and amateurs.

The Institute's activities are based on the application of scientific sensory analysis to the transfer of knowledge through seminars, courses, and workshops.

Through training, the Institute aims to produce professional figures with different levels of specialisation (chocolate sommeliers, or "Chocoliers"), who are capable of relating the characteristics perceived to the raw material and the technologies utilised.

CRIOLLO CACAO AND THE UNIQUE DELIGHTS OF DOMORI

Its unique and great insight has allowed it to save the finest variety of cacao in the world from extinction, preserving the original aromas and making them accessible to chocolate enthusiasts all over the world.

Domori has the largest collection of Criollo in the world: a world heritage for the taste and recovery of biodiversity. Criollo is the most prized variety of cacao, and was at risk of extinction: it is the cacao of the Maya and the Aztecs, whose cultivation has been progressively abandoned due to its low yield.

It is a rare and fragile cacao and represents only 0.01% of the cacao produced in the world.

Domori stands out for being the first company to use only fine cacao and for rediscovering an ancient and simple recipe: cacao paste and sugar.

Domori dark chocolate bars are indeed produced with only two ingredients, except for the 100% cocoa, which contains only one.

Domori is committed to selecting raw materials of the highest quality, which form the basis of all its products. Excellence is not limited to cacao, but also to all other added ingredients of selected origin, such as PGI Piedmont hazelnuts, Calabrian chilli peppers, and Sicilian pistachios and almonds.

KEY

Made with just one ingredient: fine cocoa beans.

Made with just two ingredients: fine cocoa beans and sugar.
